DEATH DEPLETES FAMILY

Florence, May 3.—Since a railroad accident at Ruslings, near Bordentown, February, 1902, when Robert Weast was killed, and the first to die of a family of ten adult children, death has paid annual visits in this family, and in 1904 and this year made two visits to the Weast homestead in Florence.

Six weeks ago Vera, a daughter, succumbed to appendicitis, and Monday William died, after a lingering illness, leaving a widow and several small children.

Two sons and a daughter are all that remain of a once large and happy family.
